

Welcome to the 3rd edition of the Reading Newsletter. This month I have been having a rethink on the point system for each class. Myself and Mrs McMullon have discussed the awards and think that each class should have their own points system for their abilities together with those who are in SEN. This way everybody gets the right level of points for their age and at least everyone should get a least one prize for their efforts if they are reading enough at home. So with that in mind here is the new updated points system allocated for each year group.

Reading points - New updated levels
